Greetings from the President

Welcome to Edinboro University! It’s my pleasure as the University’s new president to extend my first greetings to an incoming class and to anticipate that great day when we celebrate your graduation together. That milestone might seem a long way off, but it’s within your reach, and your new university community will ensure that you attain it on schedule.

Edinboro offers you the benefits of an accomplished faculty, excellent facilities, and support services that are second to none. Your mentors and peers will challenge you, assist you, applaud you and enrich your life with far more than an academic degree.

Toward that end, I encourage you to embrace all the opportunities your University provides. Participate actively in your classes. Meet new people and exchange differing points of view. Embrace new experiences. Join a club, volunteer for a good cause and attend events. Seek out the wisdom of your advisor. Ask for help when you need it and offer help when you can.

The faculty, staff, your fellow students and I will be here for you. We look forward to supporting you on your journey and introducing you to our University’s rich history and wonderful traditions. We Fighting Scots work hard, encourage one another, and hold ourselves to high standards. We love our signature tartan, the stirring sound of bagpipes – and Edinboro.

Welcome to our community!

Dr. H. Fred Walker, President
Mission

Distinguished by its focus on individual attention to student success, commitment to diversity, and responsiveness to the evolving needs of the broader community, Edinboro University provides the highest quality undergraduate, graduate and co-curricular education.

Values

Edinboro University is committed to creating opportunities for intellectual and personal growth in an inclusive environment. We value excellence, curiosity, respect, responsibility, and integrity.

Vision

Edinboro University will be the first choice among students, employers, and the community for excellence in higher education.
History and Traditions

Alma Mater

Hail to thee, our Alma Mater glorious, fresh wreaths we bring to bind thy brow. Trials have passed and thou has stood victorious; never fairer, never statelier than now. Oh Edinboro, Edinboro, ever praising thee in song. While class speeds class as swift years pass, to thee our hearts belong.

Brief History – Edinboro University

Throughout its more than 155 years, Edinboro University has focused on unparalleled excellence, commitment to student success, and responsiveness to the evolving needs of the broader community.

The institution was founded in 1857 as the Edinboro Academy, a village school for descendants of the region’s original Scottish settlers. It is the oldest training institution west of the Allegheny Mountains and the second oldest in Pennsylvania.

In the beginning, Edinboro consisted of a single two-story building, six classrooms, three instructors, 110 students and a principal. That original building, beautifully restored and repurposed as Academy Hall, now stands amid more than 40 newer structures on the 585-acre main campus as a symbol of continuity through a century and a half of transformation as a state normal school, state teachers college, state college and, since 1983, state university.

As the University’s facilities have expanded, including locations in Erie and Meadville, so have the opportunities in areas of study as diverse as computer animation, psychology, nuclear medicine and business. An Edinboro University education has provided the foundation for successful careers in art, education, health care and many other fields for Edinboro’s more than 60,000 alumni.

Edinboro University Fighting Scot

The robust and fearless image of the kilt-clad Fighting Scot stands as a fitting mascot for Edinboro University’s athletic teams today, but that beloved tradition is just a half-century old.

Before 1961, Edinboro was the home of the Red Raiders, a Native American symbol that seemed incongruous with the community’s Scottish heritage. Recognizing the need for a better representation of school spirit, the student newspaper, The Spectator, championed the cause of choosing a more fitting mascot. A contest was held, and a Scottie dog emerged the winner, though it would not reign for long.

The Fighting Scot identity as it is known today emerged in 1968 through a drawing by art student Mickey Sego. It is embodied in the success of our women’s and men’s athletic teams as well as in a 14-foot bronze statue that commands a plaza adjacent to McComb Fieldhouse. It was dedicated in 2010 as the culmination of a 13-year effort by alumni and friends of the University.
Your World is Changing: Overview of Your First Year

First-Year Experience Program

(814) 732-1592

Edinboro University is committed to helping students during their first year of study through a variety of academic programming and support services specifically designed for first-year students called First-Year Experience (FYE). The FYE program combines seminar courses, first-year advising opportunities, and a Common Hour to assist students in becoming oriented to the classroom, campus resources, and the Edinboro community. The FYE program is designed to help students succeed in their first year by making an effective transition from high school to university life. Additional information can be obtained by visiting the university website and contacting the FYE Common Hour Coordinator in each department.

Saying goodbye to what has become very familiar isn’t easy, but moving on to new challenges can be very exciting. The first year for all new students is a time of growth, both intellectual and personal. At Edinboro, we are committed to providing support and assistance that promotes student success. Many faculty and staff members are available to assist you and have many years of experience working with university students. If you have questions or concerns, just ask! Here are some tips to which you may refer in dealing with some of the challenges of your new experiences.

Academics

New responsibilities related to your academic success are significant during your first year. While it may seem obvious, attending class is crucial to your academic success. Be prepared for class, be prompt, ask questions, and seek assistance before you fall behind. Seek out faculty members during their office hours to get clarification and guidance. Tutoring and support services are readily available to assist you.

Campus Life

Avoid the urge to go home frequently. You are embarking on what will be among the best years of your life. Staying on campus and taking advantage of the cultural, social, athletic and recreational opportunities will help you to become more grounded in your new world. The fitness center, recreational sports, meditation and relaxation groups, athletic teams, student clubs and organizations are among the ways that you can become connected with a world of opportunities.

Finances

Where did it all go? Money may seem to disappear quicker than it comes in. Creating a budget and sticking to it is an important step in managing your money. Credit card use should be limited or avoided in order to maintain your overall financial health. Students may quickly amass credit card debt that exceeds their ability to pay. Take advantage of the many personal finance seminars that are offered throughout the year as well as financial aid opportunities.

Friends

Get to know other students, especially those in their first year. Introduce yourself to others in class, at the dining hall, in the bookstore, the student center or anywhere an opportunity presents itself. Make it a priority to become involved in a student club or organization, recreational sports, hall council or the residence hall association, or other activities and events that encourage interaction with your peers. As you make new friends, you will need to work to achieve greater balance between your social life and your academic career.

Health

A balanced diet and exercise are important to maintain your overall health, both physically and mentally. Don’t fall into the habit of grabbing fast food every day. Check out all of your options for dining at the various campus locations. Visit the fitness center, become involved in a recreational sports program or other activities offered. The student health center is staffed with physicians, nurse practitioners, and nurses who are committed to working with college students. Most importantly, be sure to get plenty of SLEEP!

Roommates and Suite-mates

Moving in with a stranger may be unnerving. Important issues should be discussed before conflicts arise. Share your personal beliefs and values related to guests in the room, cleaning, sharing clothing and other items, drugs, alcohol, and anything else that is important when sharing a room with another student. Compromise and share responsibilities with your roommate. Talk about the things that are bothering you. Your new roommate just might become your best friend. Your Resident Assistant can be a valuable resource to facilitate communication between and among students living together in the residence halls.

Academic Advisors

Academic Advising is an important part of Edinboro University’s focus on student success. At Edinboro University, students are assigned an academic advisor who is a faculty member in their chosen major. If the student is undeclared or has not met the grade point requirements for their chosen major, they are assigned to a faculty member in the Academic Success Center. If you are uncertain as to whom your advisor is, please log into MyEdinboro, select S.C.O.T.S. from the launch pad, then Student Records.

Your advisor can help you develop and reach your educational goals by communicating accurate information regarding degree programs, policies and procedures, support services, internships, study abroad, and career opportunities. You will obtain the most benefit from your academic advising experience if you approach it as a partnership between your advisor and you; empowering you to obtain relevant academic information, develop educational and career plans, and access important campus resources and services. Although your academic advisor can assist you throughout your college career, you are responsible for making decisions regarding personal and educational goals and for satisfying all graduation requirements.

Tips for Contacting Your Advisor

If you send an e‐mail, leave a note or voice message for your advisor, be sure to provide an accurate phone number and/or email address. Use of your University email account is recommended for email communication.

PLEASE NOTE: Faculty Advisors may not be available during the summer months or winter break due to research, travel, or service commitments. During those times, students are encouraged to contact the department chair for their major or the Academic Success Center (814) 732-2218 for assistance.

Obtaining a Different Advisor

If you would like to have a different advisor than the one assigned to you, you may request to change TO ANOTHER advisor in YOUR MAJOR. Forms are available at the Records and Registration office in Hamilton Hall or by using keyword: Forms from the Edinboro homepage.
Academic Resources

Academic Success Center

(814) 732-2218

The Academic Success Center supports and enhances the academic development of students at Edinboro University. Through proactive, intentional, and innovative programs, the Academic Success Center designs opportunities for students to achieve their academic goals.

The Academic Success Center, as part of a University-wide effort to improve student success, retention and graduation goals, provides:

- Academic Success Coordinators offering individualized and group experiences to build skills in study strategies, including time management, test-taking and note-taking
- Collaboration with faculty to provide support for students exhibiting academic difficulties
- Academic advising of all undeclared majors on campus, including exploration of opportunities within degree programs
- Provisional Admission Programming through the Edinboro Success Program and the University Success Program

Baron-Forness Library

(814) 732-2273

The Baron-Forness Library serves the students and employees of Edinboro University as well as members of nearby communities throughout the tri-state region. Open more than 90 hours per week, the library houses more than 400,000 bound volumes, provides access to thousands of journals in print and electronic formats and to over 115 electronic indexes and databases. More than three dozen computers in the reference area, a computer lab, and a wireless network ensure students are able to access, retrieve and manipulate information in virtually any format. The library’s numerous electronic resources, including electronic reserves and online reference assistance, make it possible for Edinboro University students, no matter where they reside, to access a wide array of library services and materials. Other services such as interlibrary loan and the self-borrowing service, EZBorrow, enable students and employees to obtain resources from other libraries. Tutoring and the Writing Center are available to assist students with their coursework. A coffee shop, a 24-hour study area, and group study rooms are also popular features. For more information about the library’s resources and services, please call (814) 732-2273 or visit us on the web by logging into myEdinboro and then clicking on the Library icon.
Dr. Robert C. Weber Honors Program
Earp Hall

(814) 732-2981

The Dr. Robert C. Weber Honors Program provides for the needs of high-ability students whose intellectual and creative talents extend beyond conventional university offerings. The program is designed for students who choose to enrich their university studies through directed, self-directed, and independent activities commensurate with their abilities. The program is available to qualified students enrolled in a baccalaureate degree program. The Honors Program is a member of the National Collegiate Honors Council and the Northeast regional division of the NCHC. Additional information may be obtained by contacting the director of the University Honors Program.

The Writing Center
Baron-Forness Library 202

(814) 732-1493

The Department of English and Theatre Arts’ Writing Center offers world-class services to all students free of charge. Students work with dedicated consultants of various majors and may receive help with argument construction, thesis development, organization, grammar, sentence structure, and different citation styles. Assistance is also provided to students with learning and developmental disabilities. State-of-the-art computers and a wide array of ESL, grammar and citation software are housed within the Writing Center to assist student writing.

Walk-ins are welcome, but appointments are recommended highly.

Governor George Leader Speech and Hearing Center
2nd Floor, Jeremy Brown Human Services Building

(814) 732-2433
Keyword: Leader

The Governor George Leader Speech and Hearing Center provides diagnostic and therapeutic clinical services for individuals of all ages with communication problems affecting speech, language, voice, cognition, and fluency. A modest fee is associated with all services and payment is handled through the Bursar’s office. The Center does not bill insurance directly but we do assist clients in obtaining reimbursement for paid services if they have insurance coverage for speech therapy. Fee reductions are available by application and currently enrolled Edinboro University students automatically qualify for a 75% fee reduction. Leader Center is open daily and operates in accordance with the Edinboro
University calendar. All services are by appointment only. Contact us by phone: (814) 732-2433 or email: davisl@edinboro.edu

Mathematics Resource Center (MRC)
Ross Hall 130
(814) 732-2760

The MRC was established in the fall semester of 2006 as a support service to Edinboro University students. Currently the MRC is staffed by peer tutors and mathematics faculty members who assist students taking a wide variety of mathematics courses such as college algebra, pre-calculus, calculus, elements of statistics, and linear algebra. Students seeking assistance are welcome to stop by the MRC during any of the scheduled hours, which are posted outside room 213 in Doucette Hall.

Office for Students with Disabilities (OSD)
Crawford Center
(814) 732-2462
osd@edinboro.edu

The Office for Students with Disabilities (OSD) coordinates a wide range of resources and services for students with disabilities who have diverse needs. Edinboro University prides itself on providing services for students with disabilities for over 40 years and the staff strive to ensure that students enjoy inclusion and full participation in the university experience. Resources and services exist to provide effective accommodation to aid students in becoming fully engaged within and outside of the classroom environment and throughout the campus community. Educational accommodations that allow students access to the learning environment are offered at no charge. Educational accommodations are determined on an individual basis and may include extended time for exams, a quiet area for exams, reader, scribe, or access to materials in an alternate format. Services that are of a personal nature include a fee for service. Attendant care, van transportation, peer advising, writing assistance, and mobility continuity are among those services for which a fee applies.
Class Scheduling for Incoming Students

The Academic Success Center will create your class schedule for your first semester at Edinboro University. You will have the opportunity to create your own class schedule in future semesters. Here is some helpful information about your schedule:

- Your class schedule is made based on:
  - Courses required for your major
  - English, Math, and Chemistry placement scores
  - Freshman Scheduling Form
  - General Education Requirements
  - Core and Skills Requirements. Courses from the Distribution component are generally not selected because these may be upper-level courses not appropriate for a first-semester student.

- Typically, your first semester you will take 15 credits or 5 courses, plus a First-Year Common Hour for your major. Most bachelor’s degrees require 120 credits; completing 15 credits each semester should enable you to graduate in four years.

- In some cases, preparatory or remedial courses are required as a result of your placement test scores and do not count as credits for degree requirements. These courses are required to prepare you to be successful in required courses.

- Unless you specify when you are unavailable, your schedule may have classes that meet throughout the week and day.

- Classes are generally offered in the following patterns:
  - MWF: Monday (M), Wednesday (W), Friday (F) (50 minutes each day)
  - TR: Tuesday (T), Thursday (R) or MW: Monday (M), Wednesday (W) (75 minutes each day)
  - One day a week, usually in the evening or Saturday (S) or Sunday (U) (2.5 hours each day)
• The last week of the semester is Final Exam week. Each course has a two-hour final examination intended to provide a culminating experience.

• It is estimated that you will spend at least two hours studying and working on assignments for each one hour you are in class. Tutoring and academic support are available.

• Your class schedule can be viewed on S.C.O.T.S., by logging into your MyEdinboro account and selecting the S.C.O.T.S. icon from the launch pad, as soon as it is created. Please be sure to read the instructions for S.C.O.T.S. before accessing the system. Check your class schedule on S.C.O.T.S. the day before classes begin to be sure you have the most up-to-date schedule.

• In S.C.O.T.S., you can also view a detailed version of your schedule. You can make changes to your schedule after New Student Registration through the first week of the semester based upon course availability.

• For more information, instructions for S.C.O.T.S., or if you have questions, keyword: Freshmen from the Edinboro homepage.
E-REG and First-Day Attendance

E-REG (Electronic Registration)

In addition to first-day class attendance, there is a secure website where students can indicate that they will attend classes in the upcoming semester. E-REG opens when tuition bills are mailed out and ends at midnight on the last day to add a class. This lets us know if you are actually planning to attend for the semester. Students can access this site by logging into MyEdinboro and selecting EREG from the launch pad. It is CRITICAL that students E-REG and indicate their intention to attend classes each semester. It’s easy and only takes a moment to do so.

First-Day Attendance

You must attend classes on the first class day. Faculty will take attendance and report daily. Any student marked as a “non-attend” will be removed from the class, freeing seats for other students during the ADD period. It is imperative that you attend all of your classes and make sure your instructor knows that you are present. So, be sure to check your schedule by logging into MyEdinboro and selecting S.C.O.T.S. from the launch pad and checking your student email account frequently to make sure you have not been dropped from a course and that you are attending the courses on your schedule.

1. Why is first-day attendance important … what’s in it for me?

The data we have suggests that this process will be a win-win situation for students as well as faculty. Our goal is to reclaim the seats of students who are not attending within the ADD period, allowing other students to enroll in courses they need. During fall 2012, approximately 1,000 seats were recorded as Non-Attend. Those seats were available to students to ADD during the Drop-Add period. The availability of these seats made a significant impact on students’ ability to get into the classes they needed.

2. Why do I have to attend my first class?

All classes are important for a student’s success. The first class of a semester is particularly important, as your professor will most likely give an overview of the course, distribute the syllabus and exam/test dates, as well as begin teaching the course material.

3. What if I am registered and miss my first class due to car trouble, sickness, etc.?

We recognize that students may have a legitimate reason for not being in class. In those cases, the student should contact the professor via phone or email. If you cannot reach the professor, then contact the department chair or dean so that you will not be removed from the class.
4. How does this help?

Along with First-Day Attendance, E-REG is designed to enable us to determine who is here and who is not. We need to be able to remove the students who have no intention of coming for the semester for which they are scheduled, which allows us to free seats for students (like you) who need them!

Once tuition bills are sent out, if you ARE attending, you must tear off the lower portion of the bill, sign it and return it (even if there is a zero or negative balance) and complete your E-REG to indicate that you will be attending for the upcoming semester. If you are NOT attending, you must complete your E-REG that you will not be attending for the upcoming semester. It’s easy and fast. Go to the Edinboro homepage and log into MyEdinboro and select the EREG icon to let us know whether or not you will be attending.

Privacy of Student Records: A FERPA Primer

Every day, questions arise over a student’s right to privacy … particularly, about the confidentiality of grades.

Can an instructor discuss a student’s grade in class? May an instructor share a student’s work with other instructors … or even the student’s parents … without the student’s permission? Is it all right to post test scores or final grades on a bulletin board or office door?

Such questions formerly weren’t cause for concern. However, in 1974, Congress enacted the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act – known as “FERPA” – and things changed. The Act imposes on any school, college or university that receives federal funds, restrictions over the release of student records.

Students at Edinboro University are entitled to access their educational records. This includes nearly all information maintained by the University that is directly related to the student. In most cases, an educational record that is “directly related to a student” consists of grades and attendance information.

FERPA protects a student’s educational record, regardless of how the records are maintained and who maintains them. An educational record consists of paper as well as electronic data. Besides grades, it typically includes test scores, comments, evaluations and similar assessments about a student maintained by an instructor, counselor or any other school official. FERPA prohibits any person connected with the institution – including administrators and faculty – from improperly disclosing student information. At institutions of higher education, students may authorize the release of their educational records – but only the student has the exclusive right to decide whether to authorize the release.
This means that, in most cases, even a student’s parent may not demand the release of the student’s educational record. Moreover, students’ access to their own educational records – as well as the right to limit disclosure of those records – continues even after they graduate or otherwise leave the institution.

There are some circumstances, however, in which educational records may be released without a student’s permission. For instance, records may be disclosed to other school officials – including professors and academic advisors within the institution – whom the institution has determined to have legitimate educational interests.

Educational institutions may disclose, without consent, “directory” information such as a student’s name, address, telephone number, date and place of birth, honors and awards, and dates of attendance. At the same time, institutions must notify students about directory information and allow students a reasonable amount of time to request that the school not disclose directory information about them. An institution may also release educational records in response to either a judicial order or a lawfully issued subpoena. Under limited circumstances, records may be released to appropriate parties in connection with an emergency – but only if the information is necessary to protect the health or safety of the student or other individuals.

Occasionally, a school official may be asked, or volunteer, to write a letter of recommendation on behalf of a student. This usually wouldn’t require the student’s written release or authorization. However, if the letter includes information that falls within FERPA’s definition of educational records – such as grade point average or class ranking – the student’s consent to include such information would be necessary.

The U.S. Department of Education is charged with enforcing FERPA, and it has created a detailed complaint procedure for those who feel an institution has violated their FERPA rights. More information about FERPA is available at http://www.ed.gov/offices/OII/fpco/index.html.

Financial Aid Tips

All Students

Apply early! Complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) at www.fafsa.gov by the preferred filing date of March 15. Students who meet the preferred filing date will receive full consideration for University scholarships, Federal SEOG, Federal Perkins, Federal Work Study and discretionary scholarships and grants. You must reapply for aid each year. Aid received one year may not be the aid received in subsequent years.

Inform the Financial Aid Office of financial assistance received from other sources (this includes outside scholarships, tuition waivers, and other sources). Awards may be adjusted based on federal regulations. Students’ financial aid packages cannot go over the cost of education.

Maintain Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) as required for federal financial aid recipients. Undergraduate students must maintain a 2.00 minimum cumulative GPA and complete 67 percent of all course work attempted. All withdrawals, incompletes, and failures count as attempted courses for financial aid purposes. See the University website for the complete SAP Policy.

Students who completely withdraw from the University before 60 percent of the term is over will be required to repay a prorated amount of any federal aid including loans.

Check your financial aid awards on S.C.O.T.S. and for any missing documents at least two weeks before the scheduled disbursement to your account. Books may be charged at the Campus Bookstore while students await the disbursement of aid.

Refund checks based on aid awarded in excess of charges are generally available three weeks after the start of the term.

Read your emails. You are informed of important information through your assigned email address. Students may forward these emails to an account they read more frequently. Respond to all inquiries from the Financial Aid Office.

Maintain a file of all documents submitted and received.

Pennsylvania Residents

PHEAA’s deadline is May 1. Your FAFSA must be submitted by May 1 each academic year to be considered for the PA State Grant. In order to continue to receive the PHEAA grant for future years, a student must meet the May 1 filing deadline and must complete 24 new credits if full-time awards are given.
When in doubt, please contact the Financial Aid Office with any questions or concerns you may have. The Financial Aid Office is here to help. Best of luck on your journey at Edinboro!

Zero Tolerance

Zero Tolerance for Alcohol and Other Drugs: The University will not tolerate the use, possession, and/or distribution of alcohol or drugs. These activities present a danger to the University community and detract from the educational mission of the institution. The University considers violations of the alcohol and substance abuse policies and laws to be serious in nature. Such violations are dangerous to the physical and emotional well-being of Edinboro students, as well as compromising to the University’s reputation within the community. Students may be denied admittance into University facilities if it is believed they are under the influence of, or in possession of, alcohol or illegal drugs. Negative behavior that results from the use of alcohol and/or other drugs will not be tolerated in the University community. All instances of drug and alcohol usage will be formally adjudicated by the Office of Student Judicial Affairs (814) 732-2920 and, wherever possible, local police authorities.

(814) 732-2701
Keyword: CLEP

The College-Level Examination Program (CLEP) is a series of examinations in college subjects such as business, social sciences, literature, foreign languages, history, math, and science. Edinboro University is among 2,900 institutions that accept CLEP exams for college credit and also serves as one of the 1,400 test centers around the country.

Students choose to take CLEP exams for a variety of reasons – whether it’s to save time and/or money, move directly into advanced courses, fulfill core requirements, or complete a degree. Candidates should have comprehensive prior knowledge in a subject or be proficient at self-study. Offered periodically throughout the semester, CLEP exams are approximately 90 minutes long and administered on a computer.
Commuter Students

Students who drive to campus from their permanent address constitute our commuter student population. While many attend classes in Edinboro, there are also many students who take classes at the Porreco Center in Erie. Commuter students are reminded to register their vehicles with the University Police. This allows commuter students to park in designated parking lots on campus, indicated by blue signs with a large letter “C.” Commuter students are encouraged to register for the campus emergency notifications that are available to all students and staff, currently being provided under the EU Shield service.

Students may check the University website or local television and radio stations for possible class cancellations due to winter weather or emergencies.

The New Standard in Student Living!

Edinboro University offers new student housing options that include contemporary or traditional student housing options. Completed in 2007, The Highlands at Edinboro is the largest single new building project undertaken in Edinboro’s 153-year history, as well as one of the largest economic development projects in northwestern Pennsylvania. The residential complex offers suite-style living within close proximity to classes, the student center, dining facilities, and campus athletic complexes. The Highlands is among the most energy-efficient residence halls in the nation, using geothermal energy technology for its climate control systems.

The Highlands complex was developed with the many amenities students desire, including but not limited to high-speed and wireless Internet access, digital cable television, computer labs, classroom and meeting space, lounges, high-tech security, and the positive living communities that Edinboro resident students have come to enjoy.

Students living on campus will see and hear the phrase “BORO Living,” or in long form, “Building Opportunities for Residents On-campus.” The mission of Residence Life and Housing is to provide quality residential services that complement the mission of the University by encouraging civility, personal development and student success. This is achieved by offering a just and caring community for everyone. The Residence Life and Housing staff is available to assist new students in making the transition from home to life on campus. Full-time Assistant Directors are assisted by Graduate Hall Coordinators and undergraduate Resident Assistants in the operation of each residence hall.

The Residence Life and Housing website has suggestions for things to bring to campus offers advice for a positive roommate relationship, and assists you in choosing the best residence hall community for you. Overall, our website has a wealth of information to assist you along the way. Don’t ever hesitate to e-mail or call our office if you can’t find an answer to your question.

Students who live on campus are typically more satisfied with their collegiate experience, graduate within four years and have higher grade point averages. Because Edinboro University is committed to student success, students are encouraged to reside on campus throughout their college career. Students under age of 21 who do not commute from the home of a parent or legal guardian are required to reside in on-campus housing for four consecutive semesters (summer sessions excluded).

The Department of Residence Life and Housing offers a variety of specialized Living Learning Communities (LLCs). Students selecting housing in LLCs benefit from: living with others who have similar academic interests, sharing classes (in addition to a residence hall), close relationships with faculty advisors who work with the LLC students.

Students sign a Housing and Food Service Agreement for each academic year. Prior to seeking off-campus housing, be sure you don’t have an obligation to live on campus, or you may find yourself holding two leases. The Residence Life and Housing Office staff will answer all of your housing questions.

Social Equity/Title IX/Diversity

Reeder Hall, 312

Keyword: Social Equity, Title IX, or Diversity

Office of Social Equity

The Office of Social Equity has two major areas of responsibility: campus diversity and social equity. These major areas support the University’s mission, vision and values by supporting students, faculty and staff with equality and fairness. The Office director leads these areas and coordinates or leads other institutional efforts as designated by the University President. The Director of Social Equity also ensures that the university does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, age, religion, veteran status, sex, and disability in its activities, programs or employment practices as required by Title VI and Title VII of The Civil Rights Act, Title IX of the Education Amendments, The Rehabilitation Act, The Americans with Disabilities Act, Age Discrimination in Employment Act and other applicable state and federal nondiscrimination laws.

The Office of Social Equity has several responsibilities related to social equity, compliance, and diversity. The Director of Social Equity serves as the University Chief Diversity Officer, Chief Compliance Officer, Agency Open Records Officer, University Ombuds and Title IX Coordinator. The Office of Social Equity also conducts all internal fact-finding investigations into claims of unlawful or prohibited discrimination, harassment, intimidation, or bullying against a University employee, vendor, campus guest, or visitor.

For information regarding civil rights or grievance procedures and for inquiries concerning the application of Title VI and Title VII of The Civil Rights Act, Title IX of the Education Amendments, The Rehabilitation Act, The Americans with Disabilities Act, Age Discrimination in Employment Act and other applicable state and federal nondiscrimination laws, contact Ronald Wilson, JD, Director of Social Equity, Chief Diversity Officer, Chief Compliance Officer, Agency Right to Know Law Officer, University Ombuds and Title IX Coordinator, 312 Reeder Hall, 219 Meadville Street, Edinboro, PA 16444 (814) 732-2167. Additionally, civil rights inquiries and their implementing regulation can be made to the U.S. Department of Education, Office of Civil Rights, Region III, 150 S. Independence Mall West, Suite 372, Public Ledger Building, Philadelphia PA 19106-9111 | Phone: (800) 368-1019 | Fax: (215) 861-4431 | TDD: (800) 537-7697.

Gender Discrimination (Title IX)

Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 (Title IX), 20 U.S.C. §§ 1681 et seq., and its implementing regulations, 34 C.F.R. Part 106, prohibit discrimination on the basis of sex in education programs or activities operated by recipients of federal financial assistance.

The President has designated the Director of Social Equity as the Title IX Coordinator. The Title IX Coordinator’s responsibilities include, but are not limited to, overseeing and receiving all Title IX reports and complaints, including complaints involving gender equity in athletics, identifying and addressing any patterns or systemic problems that arise during the review of Title IX complaints. The Title IX Coordinator investigates complaints of sexual harassment and sexual violence lodged against University employees and vendors. The Title IX Coordinator is responsible for ensuring that all parties are treated fairly and equitably. The Title IX Coordinator also is also responsible for ensuring that the university provides alleged victims of sexual violence resources and information on reporting, accommodations, treatment and counseling. The Title IX Coordinator provides initial and ongoing Title IX training for all students.
For information about sexual discrimination, harassment, violence, intimidation and bullying policies please visit www.edinboro.edu/directory/offices-services/hr/policies.html or contact the Office of Social Equity, 312 Reeder Hall, 219 Meadville Street, Edinboro, PA 16444 (814) 732-2167 or equalopportunity@edinboro.edu.

Race Discrimination (Title VI)

Title VI, 42 U.S.C. § 2000d et seq., was enacted as part of the landmark Civil Rights Act of 1964. It prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, color, and national origin in programs and activities receiving federal financial assistance.

The President has designated the Director of Social Equity as the Chief Diversity Officer. Edinboro University has a strong commitment to diversity. It is contained in its mission and in its 2013-2018 Strategic Plan. The Chief Diversity Officer provides leadership on institution-wide diversity initiatives and collaborates with other individuals on campus to promote diversity and inclusion as a component of the intellectual and interpersonal development of members of the University and extended communities. The Chief Diversity Officer advises the President’s University Diversity Council, which is the umbrella council for several diversity commissions and campus diversity initiatives. The Chief Diversity Officer assists others in sustaining a campus environment that promotes diversity and values individual differences and similarities.

For information about sexual discrimination, harassment, violence, intimidation and bullying policies please visit www.edinboro.edu/directory/offices-services/hr/policies.html or contact the Office of Social Equity, 312 Reeder Hall, 219 Meadville Street, Edinboro, PA 16444 (814) 732-2167 or equalopportunity@edinboro.edu.

All residential housing is wired for digital satellite cable television services, high-speed data connections and also have wireless Internet. StudentNET is the high-speed Internet access network available to all students in the residence halls. Access to StudentNET is provided as part of the housing fee, as are digital satellite television channels that appeal to college students.

University identification cards are part of a smart card system, which will allow students to access the automated teller machines throughout campus and within the town of Edinboro in conjunction with a PNC Bank account. The smart card system also provides access to a variety of services such as dining facilities, library resources, and the fitness center.

Student Resources

Ross Hall
(814) 732-2111

A Technology Help Center is provided to assist students with their technology needs, including EUPnet wireless configuration, assistance with virus protection and security for your computer, computer hardware sales and service, and residence hall technology services.

Students are provided e-mail accounts via Microsoft’s O365 application and network storage space for their academic files. Your e-mail can be accessed via a web browser at any time and from anywhere in the world. Your Exchange Online email account has 50 GB of storage currently available. O365 also offers students Office 365 ProPlus, which includes Word, Excel, PowerPoint, OneNote, Publisher, and Access. Our Technology Help Center knowledge based articles are available online for additional information and specific assistance. Your network and webpage storage can be accessed from the campus network or anywhere on the Internet. Students have access to S.C.O.T.S., our Student-Centered On-Line Transaction System. With it, students can register, add and drop classes, view their academic history and grades, examine their financial information, and conduct other University business. Information such as course schedules, course descriptions, and the student handbook are available on the University’s website.

Edinboro University also provides students with access to the My.Edinboro portal, your place for accessing University information and services that is tailored to your needs and interests. Students access their e-mail, the learning management system, S.C.O.T.S., and additional University services here. Edinboro University’s mobile strategy includes our Mobile Edinboro app for Android and iOS and a responsive version of Edinboro.edu.

Wireless Access

Keyword: Wireless
Edinboro offers wireless coverage to areas commonly frequented by students. Wireless connectivity is available in all academic and residence hall buildings. For more information, visit the University website.

University Police

911 Scotland Road
(814) 732-2921 (information line)
(814) 732-2911 (emergency line)
Keyword: Police

The University Police is a fully commissioned police force that provides a variety of services to ensure campus safety, security, and a positive community environment for students, faculty, staff and guests. Officers maintain high visibility on the campus while performing their duties, as well as maintaining active involvement in student life by providing safety and prevention programs. Parking enforcement is among the many responsibilities of the police. Parking on campus is by decal or temporary permit that is available at the Police Department. A valid vehicle registration and student ID card must be presented when applying for a parking decal. Students pay a fee for a parking decal. University Police suggest that incoming students program the University Police Department’s emergency phone number into their cell phones (814) 732-2911 as well as sign up for the campus-wide emergency alert system.

Veterans Center

Crawford Center
(814) 732-1568
Keyword: VSC

The Veterans Success Center (VSC) provides a wide range of services to anyone who has ever served-or is currently serving-in the U.S. Military, as well as their dependents. The services are designed to provide student veterans and their dependents with supportive services to ensure a smoother transition from a military to educational environment. These services include, but are not limited to, GI Bill processing and information, student veteran lounge, peer support and mentoring program, music lesson program, veteran recognition events, referrals to University and community resources, and most importantly, a single point of contact and advocate for all veteran issues and needs on campus.
